Evening night

Dear Sir

I thank you for the information about the Harmonious Blacksmith published by Power in 1840; but I believe we have earlier editions under that name. Thus, I have one by Birchall and Co. 141 New Bond St. another printed by the royal harmonic Institution Aryll Court. Are not these antecedent to 1840?

Should you by chance meet with a copy of Power's edition

Dear Sir,

I hope to return the page of quotations thank you for the communication.
The extract from Birchall's is correct. Who is that P. & Co. partners?
Should ^{you} be kind enough to let me know the date of the publication and the page of the quotation?
It can be believed that he had that information from some contemporary witness? You are truly a great dilettante in the field of Heraldry.
I have not autographs of musicians but of some of Helen Page.

Dear Sir
March 8 42

I have no Birchall first edit of the Harmonious Blacksmith to hand, and I should like to buy by it if you tell me the price.

Perhaps the group of Birchall can tell her where it is in the latter by the late group of Portugal, among me and all that of plain Spanish. Will you be kind to make an enquiry of the bookseller in question and to try for the request of one of the old dear
Yours very truly
W. H. Birchall

Sir

I have lately received Mr Paddy's who is the father from Miss and she told me they wrote to make the exchange.
I had the regret to be to leave it. I am sorry for their having no trouble to get all that made for nothing, but

your collection of the manuscript copies, Mr W. 1157 or the new piece of paper and John's copy of the paper that I mentioned from the press I have sent to the bank.
I have sent you the address. There are 1157 copies of sheets, the others 100 or 150 are bound as you know.
The bill of the paper for $1.50 15 and the bill of the prints to $100. I enclose I will show them.
I enclose the opinion of the prints, so in England, 9 in

Look carefully at Wellington 19th yours very sincerely

If you take the fancy of doing a collection of autographs you may be sure to be richly rewarded before six months, but then, as you have been of great assistance to me I will give to Mr. Southall a six pence each time she comes to ask for the day till her death.

legends, Latin notes and political or literary french ones may suit your desire I believe I will send some amongst my papers.
You lent me Kelly's book continued to the end of which there was an notice on Gay Martin but I returned it to you, I am almost sure for I have not the book. I hope you will find it. If not I will make search but I have not any idea to have kept it.
I look already here just now and look out for it, I will
